Probably one of the worst games I've ever owned. Literally everything in it is crude, the GFX, the SFX, the dialogue, the coding, the level design, the gameplay, the camera, the controls, the UI, the presentation, everything about it is extremely low quality. It's like a bunch of schoolboys downloaded a free 2D platform game editor and squeezed out this turd in their free study periods. I got it in the Xmas sale at 90% off and I still feel it was overpriced. I've played way better free flash games.. On A Roll 3D is a platformer game that surprised me. From the looks of it, this game looked like something someone threw together real quick, and just happened to get it greenlit on Steam. However, I gave it a fair chance, thanks to the Steam Summer Sale, and really enjoyed it.

In On A Roll 3D, you play as a ball, and simply roll to the end using basic platforming skills. Each world has various different mechanics added to it to make the game feel fresh on every new world, and the level design is really solid. If you've ever played a Sonic the Hedgehog game, the level design for On A Roll 3D very much resemble these games. The controls are very responsive, and have never failed me in my entire playthrough of the game.

Graphically, the game looks like an older PC game from back in the day. It doesn't look too good, but the simplicity of the game gives this graphic style a bit of charm as well. The soundtrack is pretty bland, with only a handful of memorable tracks (mainly the title screen music).

While the game is pretty short, with my playthrough lasting close to 2 hours, On A Roll 3D is definitely worth purchasing, if you're a fan of platforming games. I feel that this game is worth $4, and I can't help but feel that lots of people are going to miss out on this title. The only reason I wouldn't recommend this game, is if the graphics don't look appealing to you, or if you simply don't like the platformer genre. If you're still on the fence about On A Roll 3D, wait for the game to be at least $2-$3 before purchasing.. Bought this hoping it'd be a traditional newtownian space shooter like Asteroids or Subspace\Continuum. It's more a twinstick style shooter. Single player sucks pretty hard. There's no real challenge. The game uses an RPG style inventory system and gives you money for doing missions but you can't buy anything meaningful for a very long time. The "story" is told through cutscenes full of cringeworthy voice acting and stock character portraits. Back to playing vanar.io I guess.. Single mechanic, single-input indies--particularly not-so-glorified tablet games--are only as good as your friends' activity on their leaderboards. Nary an acquaintance has given Flight Control a crack, so while it's a paradoxically relaxing diversion for 10 or 15 minutes, there's no reason to keep it on your hard drive without competition.

A sequel, however, could be interesting, with the introduction of progressive difficulty level design, and the introduction of several other secondary time-sensitive moving parts to keep track of.... Flew for about 10 minutes in a straight line thinking I'd eventually find something but I didn't, you can't do a full 360 "up\down" either, it sends space into a spinning motion as you hit the limit. (I'm thinking about 180 degrees, 90 up 90 down from 0...)

So....don't know if it's good or not as I never found anything, properly boring it was though...maybe you're lucky enough to reach something and it then turns out to be a great game, 10 minutes of holding spacebar and nothing else is not enough to make me want to play more though.... ADVENTURE TIME. Not been playing long, but initial impressions:

It would be nice if there was a grid to place objects. If you are particular about space saving or having objects fit nice and neatly then it can be frustrating.

Nice game with some 'cute' aspects. I really like the game and I'm looking forwards to playing through the story.

I would recommend.. Games is dead cause of Gamespy, So anyone responsible multiplayer issues, I would kiss him or her.. With combat, car chases, hacking, codebreaking and an overall investigation where the enemy has their own schedules and adapt in response to your actions, this is the comprehensive hollywood espionage/counterterrorist sim. There's still no game quite like it. An all-time favorite of mine.

I'm japanese, sorry for poor English.
But I really want to recomend it.

This is one of Kindred Spirits on the Roof Drama CD series, one of surprised me most.

Cause it's not only story of romance(off course I like those very much too),sometimes in this story, they talk about "love".
It's more complicated theme, so I want to praise desicion of the writer.

Matsuri and Miyu is 20 years old in this story(or 19? they're not "teenage girls" already eather way),this story becoming for them.

If you're admire of YURI genrea,you would enjoy this.. A neat little puzzle game that. Worth your time! ;). Somehow they made killing tons and tons of zombies utterly boring. Might recommend you play a level or two if, like me, you find this in the bottom of your steam library, and then see if it's for you.

You get guns. There is a 'story' and you kill things that look like zombies.You go to X, then Y, then kill more zombies. The end.

I quit out of utter boredom. You hold the mouse button and hover over enemies and decimate everything with your infinite pistols. Repeat.

It's just so utterly dull to move around, holding the mouse, killing everything. Then for some reason, they get guns (???). They are able to hit you but the aiming is weird and it's hard to actually hit them back.

Also the explosive weapons are♥♥♥♥♥♥poor compared to the starting pistols.

The AI's kinda dumb, the isometric means you can't see enemies behind walls. That being said, it's not broken. If you want a working game, it's a working game. It's just so plain dull and uninteresting.

Just...so dull.. This game is absolutely worth your money! It's funny, challenging, and all around a good time! :). If I had two♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥ this game would suck both of them.. You can sink hours into this game. The puzzles are easy to understand but hard to master.. here in soviet russia, you no drive truck... the truck drive you :). Just a tiny little Jump'n'Run with a tiny ball with a face.

10/10 would play
